Building Permit Application (not included in this package)

A building permit is required for buildings moving into the District. Zoning and Building Bylaws are to be complied with and inspections are required the same as an on-site build.

Items of Note

1. Any trees or vegetation are not permitted to be removed along the route to/from the site to accommodate the structure being moved.
 - a. Trees or vegetation immediately adjacent to the site may be permitted to be removed at the Development Officers discretion, provided it is deemed necessary to make room for the structure entering/exiting the site.
2. Move Out: An inspection of the site will be conducted when the work is complete. The deposit is refunded provided that the site is left in a clean & tidy condition, and no damage was done to any District roads, adjacent road allowances or municipal reserves during the move.
3. Move in: Provided that no damage was done to any District roads, adjacent road allowances or municipal reserves during the move, the deposit is held for the duration of the build, and refunded at the end of the project.

Why so many permit applications?

Any change to a property requires a Development Permit application. This could be something as simple as tree removal, or as in-depth as demolishing an existing dwelling to build a new one.

Dependent on what the change to the property is, a second (or third) permit may be required to communicate more details, such as Build, or Move, or Demo, which in turn triggers the change for SAMA reporting and assessments.

Development Permit: "I'm doing something"
then,

Building Permit "I'm building a cabin"

Demolition Permit "I'm demolishing a structure"

Moving Permit "I'm moving a cabin off the property" or "I'm moving an RTM on to the property"
